4th Pan African Ornithological Congress SEYCHELLES

FOURTH PAN AFRICAN ORNITHOLOGICAL CONGRESS

Specialists from all over the world are meeting in the Seychelles with the particular aim of discussing mutual interests and furthering our knowledge of the birds of Africa and its associated islands.

The Seychelles Paradise Flycatcher

Trochilochlorus Cyanus

The Paradise Flycatcher, with its two central tail feathers almost 12 centim. in length, is one of Seychelles' most attractive birds. It is confined to the island of La Digue where it lives in dense woodland on the leeward slopes. It feeds on insects which it catches in mid-flight.

The Seychelles Siskin

Cisticola hyperythrus

The Siskin is a tiny little bird with a short, upright crest. It feeds on insects and seeds. The bird is not migratory, although its perpetual search for flowering shrubs and trees causes it to be constantly on the move. It builds an elaborate oval nest suspended from a branch.

The Seychelles White-eye

Zosterornis leucurus

The White-eye takes its name from the short ring of white feathers which surround the eye. The species is common to all parts of western Africa and its islands, although the Madagascan of Seychelles has the yellow pigments common to the rest of the species. It is a very gregarious bird, living in trees and bushes and feeding on insects, fruit and seeds.

The Seychelles Black Parrot

Cathartus leucurus

The Seychelles Black Parrot is a tropical species, feeding on insects, fruit berries and seeds. It makes its nest in holes in the trees and is a very colorful bird, owing to its brilliant red and blue. It has a harsh, screeching call.
